Year: 6 Subject: RSHE Block 4 Living in the Wider World
Unit: Basic first aid; Environment/Community; Careers/Aspiration

Overview:

During this sequence of learning, pupils will know when it is safe to give first aid and when it is safe to call for help. They will build on their understanding of first aid by knowing what to do in different emergency situations. This sequence will allow children to explore the wider community by participating in events. Pupils will be exposed to a range of careers which will enable them to broaden their horizons when they leave Reffley Academy.

What should I already know?

- An emergency situation is a situation that risks a person's health, security, property or environment. An emergency situation is best to be resolved by professional emergency service men and women.
- It is important to get help from an adult appropriate adult in emergency situations so that they can assess the risk and prevent further emergencies from happening.
- It is important to stay calm in an emergency situation because you will be in control of the situation around you. When you stay calm in an emergency situation you are more likely to take note of your environment, find ways to help and give key information to emergency responders when asked for it. In an emergency situation dial 999.
- Community events are important because it allows people to get together and build relationships. Community events are a great way to share thoughts and ideas about a particular topic and they are a great place to get inspired to do something different.
- Careers are jobs that you enjoy. It is important to gain an understanding of what jobs are in the community that you may want to do in the future. Thinking about your hobbies and interests will lead you to aspire to be something you are interested in.
